Title What do children think about Fungurume regarding nutrition?

Date 27/12/2024

The nutrition dialogue session focused on the theme: "What do the children of Fungurume think about nutrition", started at 11:20 am and ended at 12:45 pm. The opening prayer was said by Miss MAZIMBA WALAKA Tina, Supervisor of the children of the Gender, Family and Child service, who was mandated by Mrs. Marthe MAZIMBA, Head of Service. It should be noted that Miss INA is also one of the girls who were abandoned by their parents and even bears the name of the head of the Gender, Family and Child service, given that she grew up under the supervision of the latter, her almost legal guardian. After the opening prayer, the children sang two hymns to praise the Eternal GOD who was born in their hearts on the occasion of Christmas which was celebrated on December 25, 2024. This was followed by the presentation session of all the children and the facilitators (2 staff from World Vision and 1 staff from the NGO ARD, partner of the program in the management of sponsorship and the implementation of the program activities). Then, 2 working groups were formed, one composed of girls and the other of boys. Three questions were addressed to the reflection of both groups, namely: 1. What is good nutrition for children? 2. What are the challenges or difficulties encountered by children to ensure that they are well fed? 3. What are the solutions they propose to ensure that children are well fed in their families and communities? Each question was asked and answered by the children of each working group; from the first to the last. And this through question-and-answer games between facilitators and participants. After having exhausted all the questions, the facilitators summarized for the children all the answers they gave to each of the questions and asked the children if this was faithful so that we could close the session. The children recalled some of their answers omitted in the summary and the session was closed with a prayer said by Clarisse MBAYO, a community volunteer of the ARD structure. Finally, a family photo was taken under the mango tree in the schoolyard and refreshments were offered to the children by the program. The analysis of the theme of good nutrition varied depending on whether they were children living with their parents or children in the situation of orphans or abandoned. The children supervised by the Gender, Family and Child service (Orphans and Abandoned), focused their reflections on both the responsibility of parents and the community in the food care of children; while those living with their parents or guardians focused only on the responsibility of the latter. Nevertheless, all the children demonstrated their knowledge of the good nutrition they need for their good growth as well as their physical, moral, intellectual and social development. They all expressed themselves on the ideal of a menu constituting a good diet for children, drawing inspiration from the foods that are available in their communities and to which they do not have access.

- The participatory method: all children were given the opportunity to express themselves freely. The only instruction for speaking was to simply raise your hand. - The session with the children took place in a classroom. Each child was seated. The room was cleaned by the housekeeper from the program site office.
